給校長的信

本學年，校長邀請同學撰寫信函，除鼓勵同學多想多寫外，也讓同學向學校提出不同的意見，當中不乏有建設性及有創意的建議，現抽選以下同學作品分享：

Dear Mr. Law,
I share a common goal with you to make our school a better place. I have come up with a couple of ideas that I believe would be beneficial to our learning environment.

Firstly, I believe that fostering a positive relationship between teachers and students is crucial for effective learning. Given the current circumstances, communication has become more difficult, and this has made it challenging for us to get the help we need to succeed. To address this, I propose organizing a monthly carnival, where students and teachers can interact and build relationships through fun activities such as shooting games, ball games and games of chess.

Secondly, I suggest that we make use of iPads in our lessons. This would enable teachers to upload revision materials and assignments on Google Classroom, allowing for easy access and submission without the need of paper. Additionally, interactive games and activities could be incorporated into lessons to enhance student engagement and understanding. This proposal would not only be more environmentally friendly but also provide a more dynamic and interactive approach to learning.

I hope you will consider these ideas as we work towards making our school a better place to learn. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Yours sincerely
Wong Yat Hin, Gordon F.3A

Dear Mr. Law,

Although the Lunar New Year has been over, I still wish you a prosperous year ahead. To improve the school as a whole, I would like to make some suggestions, and hope you will adopt them.

Food is of paramount importance to us all. Since September, the appearance and food of the tuck shop have undergone major changes. But I think the price of the food has become higher. For example, a sausage used to cost only $3, but now it costs $9. On top of that, the food is often served cold, which is hard for people with weak stomach. Therefore, I hope you can inform the people in-charge to lower the price of the food a bit, and make sure to keep the food warm.

Thank you for your attention.

Yours sincerely
Hui Hoi Kiu F.2A (13)

Dear Mr. Law,

I am writing to make some suggestions to improve our school.

First, I hope our PE lessons can be more diversified. Despite the inclusion of Kin-Ball and Korfball, it is not good enough. They are both ball sports.

Furthermore, playing basketball, badminton, and skipping are too simple and common. I think our school should add some dancing classes, for example, Latin dance or hip hop dance. We do not need professional teacher, but P.E. teachers in our school can teach us some basic dance steps. In fact, some students may have learnt dancing before. They can be the assistants to help our P.E. teachers to teach dancing.

The influence of COVID-19 has reduced, and Hong Kongers can go to school or work without wearing masks. It is a great time for us to travel. Besides travelling to other countries, we can travel around Hong Kong, for example, visiting the Big Buddha, the Hong Kong Wetland Park, and Cheung Chau. In these three years, we have lost lots of good memories with teachers and classmates. I remember we travelled to Taiwan when I was a Form 1 student. Therefore, I look forward to having a nice travel with my classmates and friends in the following years.

Yours sincerely
Lee Lok Yan F.4A (16)

My cooking experience

The arrival of Christmas made many young people go out to celebrate, and my friend and I were no exception. We met up to go to the park for a picnic to celebrate Christmas. We agreed that each of us would each prepare a dish to bring to the picnic site. Since I don't have much insight or research on food, I had to go to the library to find a recipe. After searching for more than half an hour, I finally found a recipe called "love food" that I was satisfied with. I had a general look at it and was about to dig deeper when I heard the library closing bell ring. I had no choice but to borrow the book and take it home.

After I got home, I carefully looked through the cookbook, and after some tossing and turning, I chose sandwiches for my picnic. Because I think sandwiches are the best food in the world for picnics. After carefully reading the recipe, I dashed to the supermarket, afraid of forgetting the ingredients I had memorized in my head. At the supermarket, I carefully selected the ingredients I needed to make the sandwiches, which were very common, so I found them quickly. After paying for the sandwiches, I thought to myself: bread, ham, eggs and mozzarella are all very common ingredients, so the preparation method should not be too difficult. It wasn't until I got home and was overwhelmed by the sound of butter on the pan that I realized that making food is not as easy as I thought it would be. The recipe was rather concise in its description of how to make it. It didn't go into detail about how the omelette was fried, just the contents of the sandwich and which side the butter should be applied to.

I carefully cracked a hole in the egg so that it would be easier to pour the egg into the pan intact. As I was frying the first egg, I raised my hand very high, afraid that the butter in the pan would splash on my hand. My dad stood next to me with a frown on his face and kept repeating, 'Keep your hands low or the egg will fall apart. But I couldn't overcome this fear. The egg was poured into the pan intact and my hands were not splattered with oil, but the eggs, as my dad described, all fell apart and had to be made into scrambled eggs. Given my very unskilled hands, Dad had no choice but to demonstrate to me once. I saw my dad skillfully pouring the eggs into the pan and waiting patiently with a confident look on his face. After a while, dad gently tilted the egg with the spatula and turned it over. Looking at the perfect omelette, I was a bit dumbfounded and even thought that dad was a prophet, otherwise how could he know when the omelette should be turned over? The rest of the day I just stared in awe at how my dad fried an egg in a way that I couldn't afford to eat. Until dad asked me to get a plate to put the fried egg on.

After carefully watching my dad's demonstration, I wasn't as rusty as the first time, and I wasn't afraid of splashing oil on me anymore. Eventually I was able to make a pretty good omelette. Although my technique was not as skilled as dad's, and the omelette did not look as good as dad's, I was satisfied that I had made it myself and did not rely on anyone. With the experience of frying eggs, I was no longer afraid of the rattling butter, and my movements were significantly less unskilled. I finished the rest of the steps smoothly and got a delicious sandwich. On the day of the picnic, I woke up early and made the sandwich in the kitchen with a lot of smooth movements. I wrapped the sandwich in plastic wrap to keep it from falling apart like the first one. It looked much better.

My Christmas 2022 was different because of a sandwich. This cooking experience also taught me that there is a first time for everything, and that after trying, something you thought was difficult becomes less difficult.

Comments

• Nicely presented.

The author describes how she and her friends prepared their own food for a Christmas picnic, so the author referred to the process of making a sandwich. Although the cooking process is simple, the writing feels realistic. The idea is not complicated, and it clearly explains the truth that success comes from trying.
